They were dead. - Ⓓ. - Don't worry, they were dead before they were put in there. - Okay. - I wasn't as handy with an axe as you are, but I got them. - Ⓓ. - Yeah. So now... - Ⓓ. - ...now... - Ⓓ. - ...now they're dead. - Ⓓ. - ...forever. - Ⓓ. - ...forever? - Ⓓ. - Yes. - Ⓓ. - ...forever... - Ⓓ. - ...forever. - Ⓓ. - S. ...on. - Ⓓ. - ...forever. - she whispered, and she pressed herself against his chest, and cried. - I love you, I can't do without you. - he whispered. - I can't without you either. - She whispered and kissed him. - I can't be without you either. With these words they embraced, snuggled into each other and fell asleep. - S. - The alarm clock rang. - S." she whispered fearfully. - S." he whispered, got up, kissed her, and left the room. A minute later he came back and sat down next to her. - Ⓓ. - She said in a sleepy voice. - Are you going to cry? - Why should I? - You've been crying a lot today. He put his head on her shoulder and put his arm around her. - I am frightened. - I don't know what's going to happen next. - Well, you think I can't protect you. Well, you're wrong. I'm not gonna leave you. She didn't know what to say to him, so she just kissed him. He put his arm around her waist and they sat like that for five minutes. Then she looked at him and said: - You don't love me, do you? - What makes you think that? - I do not know, because you do not like me. - I like you. - I like you too. - And yet you said you don't like me. - Actually, I said you don't like me. - You don't like that I love you. - Yeah, but I love you. - I can't love you. - Why not? - I can't love and be afraid at the same time. - Then you can't be yourself. - You said yourself that love and fear cannot go together. - I can. - Can I? - And so can you. - But I don't want to. - And I don't want you to love me. - Because I don't want to be loved. - Because I can't be with a man who loves me. - Because I can't be with the person I love. - Because I can't be with the one I love. - Because I love him more. - Ha! No, you don't. - Yes, you do. This movie shows how strong our feelings for someone are, how quickly and ruthlessly they can kill us, and how important it is sometimes to know and understand that you love the person who makes you happy, not the one who hurts you. Very well shown are all the stages a couple can go through in such a short time, it would seem that we will not be able to discover anything new. But that is not the case. The movie makes you look at yourself from the outside, because that's exactly what you see when you make mistakes, not what you want to see. 'Don't Let Me Go' is a movie that can be revisited countless times. It's one of those pictures that makes you think about your actions, what you do with your life, the lives of others, the lives of people close to you, how you feel, what you think, and so much more. ' Don't Let Me Go' is a beautiful movie that teaches that there are no little things in life. There are no little things in the lives of people close to you. Even if you don't see those very little things, but they are there, and they can affect the fate of another person. This film teaches patience, because very often it takes this patience, this time, to change something for the better. This film teaches you to be careful, because it shows that even a seemingly small little thing can make a huge difference in your life.
