You can leave your review as a comment or as an average member of your computer. I bought this programme to allow me to scan all my photographs for ordering. Unfortunately the software doesn't scan well and gives a lot of errors, especially on black and white photos. This is probably due to the programme only being able to scan JPEG files. I was hoping it would allow me to scan negatives but I'm afraid the programme didn't meet that requirement either.

1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a network system, and in particular to a network system which can obtain cost information required for preparation of a system by a user and automatically provide cost information obtained for the purpose.
2. Description of the Related Art Recently, in the field of a telephone system in a company or the like, a so-called "intelligent network" is introduced. In the intelligent network, in the case where some trouble occurs in a line or a network, when the user is informed of the occurrence of the trouble, it is possible to improve the reliability of the system or the user's service. As a method of obtaining the information of the occurrence of the trouble, it is necessary to collect data about the occurrence of the trouble by periodically monitoring the status of the network. However, the operation such as monitoring requires much labor and cost. Thus, a method of automatically obtaining the cost information about the occurrence of the trouble has been considered. The method includes a method of analyzing network data or an information system, a method of obtaining the cost information by collecting time information for each call and a method of obtaining the cost information by collecting the total amount of the cost for each day and each call. However, since the method of analyzing the network data does not provide sufficient information, it is difficult to obtain sufficient cost information, and it requires much labor to collect the information for each line. On the other hand, the method of collecting the time information requires collection of the time information for each line in the network and it requires special skill for collecting the information. Also, the method of collecting the total amount of the cost requires collection of the data about the total cost for each day and each
