**QuarkXPress** QuarkXPress is a powerful graphics editor designed primarily for the Apple Macintosh platform. QuarkXPress is available as a stand-alone program or as an integrated part of the publishing program QuarkXPress. QuarkXPress was initially developed by Quark, Inc., which was acquired by Adobe in 1998.

As a stand-alone program, QuarkXPress is ideal for beginning and intermediate graphic designers because it features a large library of symbols, functions, and tools that enable you to quickly create graphic documents and generate sophisticated output to a variety of media.

QuarkXPress also offers a number of plug-in modules that enable you to control external devices, such as scanners or printers. The Adobe Creative Suite, including QuarkXPress, enables you to create digital publications such as brochures, newsletters, catalogs, and magazines.

QuarkXPress comes with all the relevant programs, including Adobe InDesign and Illustrator, so you can easily convert the finished look to a PDF document.

For this roundtable, we asked a range of Photoshop users from the local Georgia Hackerspace to share their answers to the questions below. Are you a Photoshop user? Share your experience by emailing us at tips@linuxjournal.com with your suggestions for questions or answer. 1.

What is your Photoshop experience?

SJA: I've been using Photoshop since 2005 when it first came out. I built my first website with it in 2006, and have been doing web design since. MC: I've been using PS since the early 2000s, when I started using it to fill requests from customers on a $10/month account. I ditched PS for the then-new GIMP in 2006, which I still use today.

DD: I have been working professionally with Photoshop since 1997. I've taught Adobe Photoshop classes in person and online at both local and national levels (my students are in several countries).

RW: I've been using Photoshop since 2002. I started with Elements and later moved to the full version. I still primarily work with Elements, although I use the full version now and then. 2.

What makes you choose Photoshop over any other software? MC: I became a photographer. Back then, I couldn't find anything that handled RAW files adequately. So I jumped to the full version of Photoshop. SJA: I first used Photoshop to edit my photos, and then to create work for clients when my DSLR camera broke. DD: It's the tool of choice for modern web designers. RW: The speed of Photoshop compared to other programs: I can adjust the look of a page in a matter of hours, and I get to see the result instantly. 3. What is your Photoshop workflow? MC: PS is my first tool for every project, no matter what it is. SJA: My workflow is somewhat fluid, but I have a habit of starting with the tools I know, and eventually finish with the ones I need. DD: I'll typically start with the what I like: photoshop or Illustrator. I feel Photoshop is better at most of the things I like to do. RW: Photoshop is my entry-level tool. I use the tools I'm familiar with (Photoshop and PageMaker) for that job. I use Illust

Tuesday, January 25, 2010 Love this show and I love the Busted Room. (Check it out at the link. It's hilarious and a great entertainment destination!) I'm just thinking out loud here, but wouldn't painting such an intimate portrait be considered an invasion of privacy? I mean, is it ok to stalk someone's space? Seems sketchy to me. What do y'all think? AND, the Bachelor's sexy sidekick, Ashley Hamilton, is in NYC for a screening of his movie, What to Expect When You're Expecting. Tonight is the red carpet and my fave people are going to get their first glimpse of baby Serendipity.

Friday, January 21, 2010 What can you say about a relationship that's been going on over 5 years? This is the longest relationship I've ever had, and the not-so-distant future is interesting to me. I don't know what will happen, and I don't know what I'm going to do with the rest of my life. I had a lot of fun with the pictures and I made a video too! Click the links below, enjoy! :) My next project? The Circus Royal Playhouse for the Busted Room. I will be painting a portrait, and the Busted Room has great suggestions. I can't wait to be a part of it. So many good ideas there, especially from this talented bunch. :) Wednesday, January 5, 2010 For our Art Room, Tim wanted a Happy Valentine's Day project. I set out to illustrate my Happy Valentine's Day card to him and while I'm usually pretty good at painting little sketches, I wasn't prepared for this one. I painted about 30 views of animals, in different poses, struggling to find the angle to get the people right on the valentine. The colors ended up too light and the people too dark. The fox was too awkward, the pig was too cartoony. I'm still not sure how it all came together, but I was so happy with the whole thing. I was inspired by here and there, including this cute blog post. Here's to love. Wednesday, November 4, 2009 I took some portraits to Auntie Sue's, and a small 3-by-5 collage of their 4 girls, to the office. They're not all from the same sitting, but they're all me. I'm so pleased with the
