What's new in Rick Henderson Soundtrack:

Warriors The Five Nations Warriors are a Junior Canadian Football League team that competes in the Eastern Division of the Central Conference. The team plays its home games at the Peter Lougheed Centre in Calgary, Alberta. Founded in 2006, the team is a legal successor of the SHS Wildcats and the AB Wolverines from western Canada. History The AB Wolverine (2005-2007) The Wildcats were formed in 2005 after the Canadian Junior Football League (CJFL) Chiefs went bankrupt and many teams defected to the CJFL. The team was a success in its first season, going 5-3, but after many conflicts between the team's owner, AB Grits, and the league, four teams folded, or were forced out of the league, leaving the CJFL with only two teams. The team then merged with the Stampeders of the CFL to become the upstart Western Division Tiger Cats, which played against the Alberta Capital Region Lions, whom Grits was also competing with to have his own team in the CJFL. The Tigers then folded after disputes over player contracts, locker room extras and player amenities. Grits was then left with a large portion of his teams funds in a baggie, that was not picked up until 7 days after the team folded, which led to lawsuits over player contracts. Some teams in the Stampede region openly mocked the team and the only team to stand behind the Cats on-field was the Lions, which for a time pulled their players from practice and refused to schedule a home game against the Cats. The Tigers had no team name but the team ran a variant of "Wildcats" as part of their jerseys and on the helmet covers. World Bowl XLI (2008) On July 25, 2008, the Wildcats and a high school QB by the name of Justin Hansen signed a 3-year league deal for over $50,000-$70,000, which made the team eligible for the 2008 Pepsi Cup (three teams competed for the championship), where they finished 3rd with a record of 5-3. They also won the first Canadian Football League Showdown, a game against the one-time Tiger Cats (known as the Calgary Stampeders) of the Canadian Football League (CFL). The Sharks would finally join the league with the 2012 season. In February 2009, former Wildcat/SHS senior linebacker Robert Jackson was listed as a finalist for the Brandon Taylor Award. Jackson was selected in
