In this study the prevalence of OSA syndrome was 3.7% in patients with orthodontic appliance, which is in agreement with several studies that find the prevalence of OSA in patients with various treatment modalities to be 2.5% to 6.7% ([@B19],[@B20],[@B21],[@B22]). It has been suggested that there is an increase in the incidence and prevalence of OSA syndrome in the recent years in the general population as the increase in BMI ([@B4],[@B23],[@B24]). This is due to a multifactorial reason such as lifestyle factors, like unhealthy diet and lack of exercise, an increase in the number of people who are affected with the metabolic syndrome which is the main risk factor for OSA syndrome ([@B25]). Also some studies found that African-Americans are more prone to OSA syndrome even though there is no explanation for this ([@B26]). However, in our study patients with orthodontic appliances were not overweight nor had any other risk factor for OSA syndrome.
