Photoshop Elements is part of the Adobe Creative Suite. It is available as an independent download, or bundled into a complete version of Photoshop. If you use Adobe Photoshop Elements, there are several things you can do to save time and optimize your workflow. View your tasks An easy way to see what all you need to complete is the tasks tab. This is a mini version of Photoshop's history panel and allows you to see what you've worked on recently. Every task you create is logged on the bottom. Expose your work You can group layers together to save steps or duplicate a document for easy editing. You can also shift layers to open up new areas of the image. Try to avoid using duplicate layers as it becomes unclear on what the image is supposed to look like after all the steps and edits are applied. Optimize your backups Backups are vital when working with a graphics editor like Photoshop. If you overwrite an image, it's possible to lose the data. Saving a copy of your image and other files is important for saving your work. Adobe Photoshop

Elements has several ways of doing this. You can use either the cloud or a local computer to create a backup. Computer backups You can either save images to an external drive that you plug into your computer or to the local computer itself. If you backup to an external hard drive, we recommend using the cloud, as the hard drive is not always on. You can backup your local files to an external drive or save them to the cloud. Saving a computer backup image file to an external drive Before you backup to an external drive, you need to be sure that the drive is turned on and connected to your computer. 1. Launch Photoshop Elements and go to File > Backup and save the image file. 2. Click the drop down menu in the top right of the window, and select Images | File name. 3. Click Browse to open the folder where you're saving the image files. 4. Find the image you want to backup, and highlight it. 5. Type a name in the File name text box. Click the Save button to save the image. Saving images to the cloud 1. Open Photoshop Elements, click the drop down menu in the top right corner, and select Files > Share. 2. Click the 05a79cecff

Q: Ajax not working in combination with JQuery Mobile I'm having a problem. The Ajax call is never being made, I tried other ways to show the information (direct php-file called, php-script in the same file, and even using json instead of xml for the return data) and they all work great, except for this one. With the php-file in the same file the data just wont show. With the call in the index.php file it shows an endless loading-screen. This is the index-page Mandelkast Mandelkast
