In this retrospective series, 41 hips in 38 patients were treated by isolated closed reduction of congenital dysplasia of the hip. All patients had bilateral disease. The average age at reduction was 13 months (range, 0 to 40 months). The average age at follow-up was 58 months (range, 20 to 106 months). The average prereduction dislocation angle was 41 degrees (range, 17 to 60 degrees), but after anatomic reduction the average dislocation was found to be 2 degrees (range, -2 to 17 degrees). The average hip-diameter ratio, based on radiographic measurements taken just after reduction, was less than.065 (range,.038 to.078). The average decrease in the initial acetabular index was from 34 degrees (range, 24 degrees to 50 degrees) to 8 degrees (range, 1 degrees to 27 degrees). Of the patients, 88% were asymptomatic at follow-up. Hip rotation remained constant (mean, 17 degrees). If conservative treatment is desired in a child with the "large pelvis" deformity, closed anatomic reduction should be attempted soon after birth and is associated with a high likelihood of symptom-free treatment.A 95-year-old woman who claimed in a Tumwater, Wash., casino that she was the mother of the late president Ronald Reagan has died, a family spokesperson said Tuesday.
