Scenery Project Recruitment for P3D V4 | FREE DOWNLOADÂ . But when I downloaded the sourcecode from this link, I got 404 So, how can I really download the source code? A: It isn't very obvious, but there are three different repositories linked by this repo's admin, GustavoSilveiraSouza. This first project seems to be the new - and final - scenery project. The link you have is a repository for this one, not the package you are after. The other two aren't related to your original question, so I'm moving on. The second project is the old scenery, but the files are only accessible to those who have a key.
You can get it for free. The third one was the sourcecode for the old scenery, but a link to that was already given by Radu. I recommend looking at the old repository instead. If you keep following that first repo, you should find the right stuff. Paypal, the electronic transaction processor, and MasterCard, the second largest credit card processing firm, have agreed to divest their 65% combined market share to the other by taking each other public. The companies hope the stock split will increase the value of each. DigitalNomad wrote in interesting article a few weeks ago looking at the diverse selection of benefits we can enjoy using our credit cards and the benefits we lose with debit cards. Paypal and MasterCard announced their planned reorganization of the transaction processing business into two separate public companies on November 11. MasterCard intends to retain its leading consumer and issuer payment business while Paypal's merchant acquisition unit will be spun off into a publicly-traded company called Braintree. The value of the combined businesses will be around $50bn, equivalent to only 4.8% of the total combined volume of electronic payments processed in the United States in 2013. The $50bn split is equivalent to about 12.3% of the combined value of Paypal and MasterCard, which were worth $185.1bn and $76.5bn respectively at the end of last
